Mike Berry Will Direct R & W Show

Mike Berry, a fourth year honours economics and political science student, will be the producer of the 1961 Red and White Revue this year.

Wilfred Hastings, Secretary-Treasurer of the SEC announced the appointment yesterday. The position has been vacant since the completion of last year's Revue, "Got It Made".

MIKE BERRY

Berry informed the Daily that the organization for the Revue was already well underway and a director would be named shortly. "A large team of writers are already attending regular meetings", he said, "in an effort to write the show". As yet they are unsure of the exact format they will be following but Berry said that they were probably going to adapt a well-known novel or play into musical comedy terms.

Asked what he thought would be the Revue's chances of success after several hit shows in previous years, Berry replied:

"Because of the number of experienced people — people who have learned by their own mistakes in the past few shows — I think that the '61 show has an excellent chance of maintaining the standard set in years gone by."

McGill Red and White Revues moved into a new realm when My Fur Lady, the '57 edition, became a professional company and toured Canada for several months, becoming a legend in musical comedy tradition here. This hit show was followed by Wry and Ginger, which also toured, though more briefly, and Reign or Shine, in 1959. Last year "Got It Made" ran for two months to audiences in Montreal before moving outwards to Ontario.

Berry pointed out that while he knew there was a high standard to be reached in the theatre itself, he felt that the abundance of talent at McGill would prove only a stimulant to further and greater success in the field.

The Honorable A. K. Hugessen, Q.C., will deliver the address at today's Founder's Day Convocation in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium at 4 pm. During the ceremony, which commemorates the birth of James McGill, four honorary degrees are to be conferred and 234 students will graduate.

The graduates will be "capped" by Chancellor R. E. Powell. For many years it has been customary for the Chancellor of the university to perform this duty.

Honorary degrees will be received by Dr. Wilder Penfield, Dr. John Stewart Foster, Senator Hugessen and Dr. A.V. Douglas, and Emeritus Professorship will be conferred upon Dr. L.C. Montgomery.

The Honorable A. K. Hugessen will receive an Honorary Doctor of Law degree. He is an active senior member of the Board of Governors and a member of the Senate in Ottawa.

Dr. Penfield will receive the Honorary D. Sc. because of his outstanding contributions to science. Dr. Penfield recently retired from his post as Director of the Montreal Neurological Institute.

An Honorary Doctor of Law degree will also be conferred on Dr. Douglas, Dean of Women and acting Professor of Astronomy at Queen's University. Dr. Douglas is a graduate of McGill University B.A., M.Sc., Ph.D. and was for some years on the staff of McGill as Assistant Professor of Physics.

Emeritus Professorship will be conferred upon Dr. Montgomery, former Physician in Chief of the Department of Medicine of the University.

UNIVERSITY HISTORY

James McGill, the founder of McGill University, was born on October 6, 1744. His will made on March 8, 1811 stated: "I give and devise all that tract... of land, commonly called Burnside... to trustees who shall convey (said property) to the Royal Institute for the Advancement of Learning... and who... shall erect and establish a university or college... The said university shall be named McGill College..."

Eight years later the college which he had endowed opened its doors.

In the first unsettled years, although the fees were low, fifteen to twenty-five dollars, living facilities were sparse and meagre. Many students shared rooms with their professors, much to the displeasure of both parties.

However with time, and with the funds available, the university became organized into a working unit with nearly adequate facilities. But few of the social activities of present day McGill were to be seen a century ago. Athletics and physical education were non-existent. There was no Students' Union, and not one fraternity joined in the campus life.

The first real Founder's Day Convocation was held in 1924, and has been held annually since.

Death Of Levine Ruled Result Of Heart Disease

Death from natural causes was the verdict reached yesterday in the inquest of Michael Levine.

Dr. A.B. Clement, City Coroner, stated "It was positively established that this boy died of a heart attack".

Levine, a 19-year old freshman at Sir George Williams University, died during a freshman initiation rite Friday, September 30, in Phillips Square.

He trotted there from S.G.W.U. wearing a placard saying "I am Herb Elliot" and collapsed when about to make a speech announcing his retirement.

The coroner formed his decision after considering two bodies of evidence. The medical report submitted by the court physician based on the autopsy and Levine's medical record, stated that Levine had been sick for a "long, long time".

The second basis of the ruling was the evidence given by two S.G.W.U. upperclassmen present at the accident. This testimony revealed that Levine did not fall, but slid down and collapsed.

Clement stated, "Of course, having run in the street didn't help any".

When asked about the effect of Levine's obvious excitement on the accident, Clement said, "Certainly excitement played a part in his attack".

He added, "His heart had been very, very bad since childhood. He had suffered from many illnesses, rheumatism among others."

"The attack could have occurred at any time", Clement stated. "It could have happened while he was playing golf or at any time of excitement."

Lectures and Change of Course

Lectures and labs will be cancelled from 3 to 6 pm today for the Founder's Day Convocation.

Students are reminded that Friday, October 7, is the last day on which courses may be changed. Forms for change of course may be picked up at the Assistant Dean's office in the Arts Building.

Mintzberg Chairs SAC

Henry Mintzberg, B. Eng. Mech. 5, has been acclaimed chairman of the Students' Athletics Council. The acclamation was announced last night by Murray Greenwood, SEC Electoral officer.

On hearing of his acclamation, Mr. Mintzberg issued the following statement to the Daily, "Working in conjunction with the Athletics Department, it is my hope that the other members of the SAC and myself can raise the prestige of the organization, and continually strive to express the wishes of the majority of the students of McGill".

HENRY MINTZBERG

Five nominations for the position of Engineering representative on the Students' Executive Council have been submitted for the election to be held Tuesday, October 18. The last day for nominations to be received is tomorrow.

The nominations for Engineering Representative are as follows: Edgar Alzner, B. Eng. M. 5; James Gordon Garrett, B. Eng. El. 5; Arthur Levine, B. Eng. El. 5; Philip Irvin Solfer, B. Eng. El. 5; Russel Miles Williams, B. Eng. Chem. 5.

"As of today, no nominations for a representative to the SEC have been submitted from the School of Graduate Studies and Research. The council has also called for nominations from the Faculty of Commerce to be handed in by Friday."

OCTOBER 6, 1960

Digging for Dirt

Widespread moral disapproval of the controversial Duplessis regime, unleashed by the death of the iron-fisted ex-Premier, was undoubtedly a key cause of the National Union's surprising defeat at last June's provincial election.

Sensing that this would be the case, Premier Lesage and his fellow Liberals incorporated in their platform a promise to investigate — if elected — the administration and electoral practices of the NU.

Yesterday, Mr. Lesage carried out his promise by naming a three-man Royal Commission to undertake the proposed inquiry.

Many features of the announcement from Quebec are heartening. First, the Commission hearings will be public. This will give the people of this province a deserved opportunity, albeit a belated one, to learn how its affairs were administered during a period when revelations of this nature were suppressed by one method or another.

Second, the target date for the commission's report is as proximate as can be reasonably expected. It must report within nine months on findings related to the celebrated sale of Quebec Hydro's gas facilities to the Natural Gas Corporation in 1958. Three months later, it will have to report on the system of purchasing used by the Colonization Department during the last five years as well as methods used by the Provincial Government's general purchasing division.

In setting these tight target dates, Premier Lesage has allayed the fears of those who suspected the proposed commission would delay its report until the eve of Quebec's next general election, when it would come in handy for political football. Since the Liberals have already stated unequivocally that they will not call a snap election next year, there is no possibility of this happening.

A third favourable aspect of the newly appointed Royal Commission is its personnel. Mr. Justice Elie Salvas, named chairman, is a highly-regarded Superior Court judge. Jean Marie Guerard, Quebec City lawyer, also appears well-qualified. And McGill Governor Howard I. Ross is a gentleman whose integrity and distinction are a matter of record.

In all fairness to the National Union, it should be recalled that the Liberal regime of Alexandre Tachereau was scrutinized posthumously by a similar commission — appointed by Mr. Duplessis. Its revelations were what a euphemist would term scandalous.

We are not sure what the Salvas Royal Commission will unearth. But we do hope its work will not have to be duplicated by successors to the present regime.

No Room At the Top

To say that last evening's Activities Night was a success would be a gross understatement. As easily-impressed freshettes and freshmen mixed with knowledgeable upperclass students on all three floors of the McGill Union, reams of literature were distributed, and countless opinions formed.

From the avant garde attitudes of the Socialist Society to the staunch conservatism of the chess and religious societies — virtually all campus organizations were represented. Even those members of the male sex, there to investigate the attributes of incoming freshettes, were deluged with pamphlets and exhortations to join, join, join.

Only one major campus group was absent. The champions of apathy maintained no booth, passed no pamphlets, exhorted no one. Indeed, had they made an appearance, the combined forces of nationalism, religion, organizationalism, and others, would have run them out of the Union on a rail. This was no night for the indifferent, as every inch of space was well-used by an industrious student body.

In effect, there was no room at the top.

Letters to the Editors

Sir:

To clarify any doubt, I must take issue with two points in addition to those yesterday's editorial dealt with. First, no screen was raised between facts and fiction re: fraternities in my "Ivory Tower" piece. As a fraternity member, I have first hand knowledge of the practices cited.

Second, a small error was suggesting the University could revoke fraternity charters. What they can do amounts to the same thing; they can forbid any student to be a fraternity member. Many universities have used this procedure in abolishing fraternities on their campuses. The University can, moreover, threaten to expel any student engaged in hazing of any kind.

This action I, for one, would support. B. C. Z.

Sir:

Friday's death of Michael Levine calls for the abolition of initiation ceremonies.

I don't deny the humour of some initiation pranks, but I feel the thought and energy involved could be better used in helping the university or some charitable organization. After 'rushing', I hope this idea will be considered by fraternities for their new pledges.

Eichmann Case Disputed In Hillel's Noon Debate

Four of McGill's senior debaters disputed the topic: "Resolved that Israel is justified in trying Adolf Eichmann" at Hillel yesterday.

Judge, Stuart Smith, President of the Students' Society, gave a "close and technical" decision to the affirmative team of Barry Margulis and Irwin Cotler. They defeated Michael Stein and J.J. Elkin.

All four debaters are fourth-year Arts students who have long been prominent in debating at McGill.

The first speaker for the affirmative, Margulis, began by defining key words in the resolution. He said that Israel referred to the Jewish state and "to a political body in some sense representative of world Jewry as a whole".

He also claimed that "justified" meant that Israel has two rights to try Eichmann, a legal right and a moral right.

Margulis then outlined Israel's moral right to try Eichmann. He stated that although Nazi war crimes were committed against the human race, the Jews alone have a right to try Eichmann, as he was entrusted by the Third Reich with the responsibility of exterminating the Jewish race.

NEGATIVE REPLIES

Stein replied for the negative that trying Eichmann in Israel would be "against the general principles of international law as recognized by civilized nations".

Then he claimed that Israel has no right to try Eichmann for the following reasons. Israel did not exist as a state until 1948, three years after Eichmann's crimes had ceased. Also, he said, the small state of Israel does not represent all Jews in the world.

Further, he stated, the Jewish people is not a legal unit, but a race consisting of citizens of different countries. He recommended that Eichmann be tried by a special international court composed of representatives of the countries whose citizens were exterminated by Eichmann.

ISRAEL REPRESENTED

The second speaker for the affirmative, Cotler, maintained that Israel represented the Jewish people before it became a state, as West Germany has given reparations to Israel for war crimes committed before 1945.

He stated that it is an accepted principle of international law that any state is sovereign within its own boundaries. He said that a motion advanced by Israel in 1953 at the U.N. recommending the formation of a special court to try Nazi war criminals has been shelved ever since.

He claimed that Israel is the only place where the trial can be held efficiently. In Israel he said, there are witnesses, evidence, and a court already formed.

NEGATIVE ANSWERS

The negative's second speaker, J. J. Elkin, answered that allowing Israel to try Eichmann would be submitting to a relative definition of justice, when justice must be an absolute notion applicable to all men.

He continued, "We cannot say Israel represents all Jews. Also, people other than Jews suffered at the hands of Eichmann. An international tribunal would be fairest to these."

He continued, "Since Eichmann's crimes were committed against humanity and not Jews alone, he must be tried by humanity itself; he must be tried by an international court, not by a specific country."

WU Has Netted $1,100 In Sale Of Old Textbooks.

Book sales have brought in $1,100 so far, announced Betty Zeisler, chairman of the Women's Union book exchange.

After the total amount has been collected, 10% will go to the Women's Union Scholarship Fund, the other 90% going to students, who brought in the books. A notice in the Daily in two weeks will announce where and when the student can pick up their money and unsold books.

This notice will also announce another book sale, to be held in Royal Victoria College and sponsored by the Women's Union. The books in this sale are those which have not been sold in Union book sales of the past five years and those which students have not reclaimed.

Books for most courses are still available in the Union Workshop, with a wide range of prices. There is a good supply for freshmen, and for other years, including a plentiful variety of mathematics, English and Zoology. Books can be obtained from 12-2 pm daily.

Betty Zeisler's assistants in this sale are: Sherill Newman, Deana Gooch, Ruth Leitass, Myrna Carlin and Pat Baula.

Ross Appointed to Royal Commission on NU Gov't

McGill Governor Howard I. Ross was appointed yesterday to the three-man Royal Commission named by Premier Lesage to investigate the National Union regime ousted from office last June.

The Commission will include Mr. Justice Elie Salvas of the Quebec Superior Court who will chair the proceedings. The third member is Jean Marie Guerard, Q.C. a Quebec city lawyer.

Mr. Ross, past president of the McGill Graduates' Society, obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree from McGill and his Master's degree from Oxford. He is a member of the executive of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants and chairman of its research committee on accounting. Presently, Mr. Ross is general chairman of the current Red Feather Campaign in Montreal.

The main item on the agenda will be an investigation of the much-publicized sale of the Hydro-Quebec Commission's gas facilities to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation in 1958. Public inquiries will most likely be held in Montreal over the next nine months, at the end of which time a report will be made.

The Commission has also been given instructions to probe the methods of purchasing employed by the National Union government in general as well as the system used by the Colonization Department in particular.

Bob Talks About... Possible Loss

By Bob Cohen
Asst. Sports Editor

Things were looking bright last Saturday night. Despite a close loss to the Golden Gaels from Queen's, the Redmen gridders fortunes looked good. Anyway, this is the way most of the "outside observers" saw the picture. The Red and White offence, although spotty, was at times really smooth. Tom Skyeck was connecting on some smart pass patterns and Bob Milligan was pounding the line for convincing gains. The team was racking up point totals the likes of which hadn't been seen in these parts for a long time.

The general consensus of opinion was that it was only a matter time before the big machine started to move into high gear. The question is, how much time?

COULTER WORRIED

Coach Bruce Coulter, the man who knows, is worried about this week's game against the sofar hapless Western Mustangs. When we interviewed the coach after practice last night he had two really big worries. He told us that he expected Johnny Metras to have the Mustangs fired up to a fever pitch after the smarting loss suffered at the hands of Varsity. Coulter also expressed concern at the apparent lack of enthusiasm shown by his defensive stalwarts.

It looks as if the luxury of a better than average offence has taken the competitive edge off the once jarring defence. Last year the knowledge of a comparatively feeble offence kept the defensive platoon on guard. This season the protectors are relaxing in key situations and costing the team valuable ground. The glaring weakness has been on down-field tackling. Twice in two games, the opposition (in both cases the Gaels) have exploited this defect to their advantage, one occasion brought a touchdown and the other, a 60 yard gain.

Coulter said that the team won't be able to operate at peak efficiency until the protective platoon smartens up. The only winning combination will be our present offence (with a little more consistency) and a defence which can and must operate at the efficiency of last Year's crew. If we don't get it, we'll be making excuses for the next while. These are excuses that should never, with our present potential, be necessary.

Indians Pile Up 28-0 Score Over Lakeshore

The McGill Indians opened the 1960 Junior Q.R.F.U. season on a winning note last night as they walloped the winless Lakeshore Redskins to the tune of 28-0. By virtue of their victory, the Indians picked up four points to vault into a third place tie with the Town of Mount Royal Lions. A sparse crowd of 250 fans witnessed the one-sided contest, which featured the powerful ground attack of the red and white squad.

Early in the first quarter the Indians began a sustained drive from their 40 yard line, led by hard-running fullback, Mal Burness. After carrying for two first downs, Burness went for 23 yards on an off tackle slant, bringing the ball to the Lakeshore 14 yard line. John Smith then swept around the left end from the ten for the first McGill touchdown. The convert attempt was no good.

For the remainder of the first quarter, the Indians dominated the play, but were held off by a determined Lakeshore defense when they approached touchdown territory. The second quarter featured the fine running of the two McGill fullbacks, Burness and Pete Rule of Calgary. Near the end of the stanza an eleven yard pass from Q.B. John Sabo to Al Schreiber brought the pigskin to the Lakeshore 34 yard line. Another pass, this time to Ian Henderson, gave the Indians a first down on the twenty, and then Smith made a spectacular end run to the one yard line. On the next play, Sabo handed the ball to Burness for the T.D. Martv Black split the uprights on the convert attempt, making the score 13-0 at the half.

During the opening minutes of the second half, tackle Ray Lawson recovered a fumble in deep Redskin territory, and a fine catch by Smith moved the ball to the three yard line. However, a clipping penalty wiped out the play. The Indians decided to play it safe, and Don Cameron kicked from the 25 yard line into the end zone, where Doug Pascal made the tackle for the single point.

BLOCKED KICK

The Redskins took over the ball, and three plays later McGill's Fraser Allan broke through the line to block a kick. The ball fell into the arms of Mike Marshall in the end zone for McGill's third major. Black converted to bring the score to 21-0.

From this point on the Lakeshore defense wilted, and The Indian offensive crew, led by the brilliant running of Rule, piled up huge gains along the ground. With five minutes left in the game, Rule picked up a fumble on the Lakeshore 35, and ran the rest of the way for the game's final T. D. Black, who is turning out to be an accurate placement kicker, converted again to raise the score to 28-0.

TIDBITS

Coach Dave Copp was very pleased after the big victory, especially since it was the team's opening game... Pete Rule was the outstanding player on the field... Doug Pascal replaced the injured Burness early in the third quarter, and performed admirably... The red and white line was extremely effective, led by defensive end Brian Coleman... Pablo Maidaniw, Doug Ritchie, and Ray Lawson beefed up the centre of the line... Quarterback Sabo called a great game, and the line gave him all the protection he needed... The biggest surprise of all was the wide running of Smith... The Indian ground attack piled up a total of more than 300 yards... next game is Tuesday night against the Town of Mount Royal Lions... A victory for the tribe assures them of a berth in the playoffs...

Daily Thwarts Tricky Thieves

Thieves broke into the Daily's editorial offices last week and almost made off with the typewriter used by Dave Angus, Chairman of the Editorial Board.

Angus, who is a second year law student, left his room at 9:30 p.m. on Thursday evening, leaving his window ajar. Five minutes later, his typewriter was gone, his editorial removed and laid on the desk. The entire Daily staff swung into action but were completely baffled and finally thought of calling the police. Two constables from station Ten arrived to investigate.

While one questioned Angus, the other slipped down the fire-escape and disappeared. Very soon, he returned carrying the controversial instrument, which he had found in a garbage can below Angus's third story window.

Daily officials believe the incident was the result of a prank, or that the thief was afraid to be seen on the street carrying a typewriter. Psychologists, who were called in, believe the prankster could not tolerate the editorials turned out by the machine.
